Monitors free speech activity going on around campus. Other campuses may use campus PD, Dean of Students, but at CSUF SL&L is in charge. Guidance for Free Speech Activities: First Amendment, President's Directive No. 5, venue reservations, amplified sound. Time, Place and Manner: Appropriate time for FS activities, appropriate venues and locations for free speech activities, appropriate manner in which FS activities can occur.

University Commitment: remain 'content neutral', promote the university as a "marketplace of Ideas", remind FS visitors they are welcome to share information, but their actions cannot interfere with the academic mission of the University, may need to remind our visitors that they cannot conduct actions that "aggressively coerces, threatens, hounds, harasses or intimidates another person".

Clarify: if someone were to threaten a group, is that protected under first amendment? Yes, because an individual is not being targeted.

Question: What defines 'action'? Can it be emotional or something like outing a person? Only physical.

Question: "All LGBTQ should be in concentration camps" is that considered protected speech? Yes

Frequent Activities at CSUF: Off campus (preachers with conservative views, non-profits), Registered and Non-Registered Student Orgs (rallies, marches, speakers)

Staff Supervision and Crowd Control: More than 50 people will require a SL&L staff member to be present throughout the demonstration. If speech is aggressive, staff member will be present regardless of the crowd size. Crowd Control: if audience is 5-10 feet close to the visitor, we would ask them step back at least 25 feet. If they do not abide by request, staff will stay close

What about hate speech? Yes, protected by the first amendment. Only when it is targeted a specific individual then it cannot be protected.

Addressing hate speech: SL&L informs corresponding resource centers about content being delivered that can be emotionally triggering to them. Comfort triggered students by connecting them to CAPS. For aggressive interactions: staff with connect with students.

Question: Engaging with protesters. If they called me a derogatory word, is there something I can do? Yes, contact UPD or if SL&L staff is nearby, go to them.

Geography club motions to extend SL&L's time by 5 minutes, Phi Alpha Theta seconds.

Tips: Speak out against triggering events, raise awareness, organize a joyful and peaceful protest away from the event. Above all, avoid confrontation with the speaker and supporters.

Free Speech workshops: October 3 5:3pm (Gilman AB), October 5th 12pm (Theatre), October 11th 12pm (Gilman AB)

Question (Liz Sanchez): If a student from GOP threatens me online on social media is that protected? Yes, because it is on social media.

Question: If a speaker outs a specific student, is that protected? Student who was outed sought legal action, but did not go anywhere. Interpreted as being protected under the first amendment.

Question: regarding a Milwaukee state student who was sexually harassed by Milo. Can that be protected speech? Same answer as above.

Liz Sanchez
Concerns about Student Life's appearances and presentations about free speech. SQE is directly mentioned in SLL's presentation. Student leaders are under pressure from all sides. What we are in control of starting a conversation. We are humanities students: critical thinkers. Ask questions if the presentation makes you uncomfortable. You have power, believe in yourself.

Rebecca Hesgard
Student at-large. Encourage you all to speak up and voice in what you truly believe. Don't let admin silence your voices. Outreach for the unity block party. Realize how important what we are doing re: Milo. It's not just our campus, others as well.
