

Commas Exercise Answer Key:

1. Thomas Edison was a productive inventor, and he held over 1,300 patents.
2. He was a bashful, dopey, sleepy dwarf.
3. The frothy, radiant, princess kissed the putrid, vile frog.
4. You can buy life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness in Los Angeles.
5. A good student listens to his teachers without yawning, reads once in a while, and writes papers before they are due.
6. Bob Mills, a sophomore from Raleigh, was the only North Carolina native at the Japanese food festival in Cary.
7. Aaron thought he could see the future, not the past, in the wrinkles on his skin.
8. You wore a lovely hat, but you didn't wear anything else.
9. My hamster loved to play, so I gave him a hula-hoop.
10. Generally, extraterrestrials are friendly and helpful.
11. Moreover, some will knit booties for you if you ask nicely.
12. On the other hand, Bert and Ernie are known to have worked closely with Hitler.
13. If you discover that you feel nauseated, then you know you've tried my Clam Surprise.
14. As far as I am concerned, it is the best dish for dispatching unwanted guests.
15. Although finals week is crazy, Sarah and I went to Disneyland.