

California State University Fullerton
Fullerton International Resources for Schools and Teachers

With funding from National Geographic Society presents

California and the World: A Global International Education Summit

Our students are growing up in a world that requires a global understanding to live, work, and participate as active citizens in the global interconnected world of the 21st century. Learn about resources and practices that enhance global international skills and perspectives in all disciplines. Join forward thinking members of our community in creating a plan to enhance partnerships, educational opportunities, and funding to prepare K-University students for success.

May 6, 2008

8:00 am — 3:00 pm

University Conference Center at CSUF Titan Student Union

Featured Speakers

National Geographic

Charles E.M. Kolb, President
Committee on Economic Development

Chris Harrington, Vice President
Strategy and Business Development
Toshiba America Information Systems, Inc.

Dr. Anthony Jackson, Executive Director
International Studies Schools Network

Panel of Best Practices

In Collaboration With

College of the Humanities & Social Sciences

College of Education
Department of Secondary Education

California International Studies
Statewide Project (CISP)

GLEO
Global Leadership Experiences Online

AUHSD BTSA Induction Program

Orange County Department of Education

Your complimentary registration is funded by National Geographic and FIRST

Please email the attached registration form by April 28, 2008 to: Connie DeCapite, Director
FIRST at CSU Fullerton, cdecapite@fullerton.edu
Questions: Please Call 714-345-4877

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC

Hampton-Brown

CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY
FULLERTON

Continental Breakfast and Lunch Provided