

SPECIAL LECTURE & BOOK SIGNING

Francisco J. Ayala

2010 Templeton Prize
2001 Medal of Science winner

“The Foundations of Morality: Biology, Culture, Religion?”

Does evolution explain human nature?
Does morality have a biological foundation?
Is morality merely socially constructed?

An eminent scientist, Francisco J. Ayala is a Donald Bren Professor of Biological Sciences, Ecology, and Evolutionary Biology and a professor of logic and the philosophy of science at the University of California, Irvine. He is the author of more than thirty technical books, hundreds of scientific papers, and a recipient of numerous awards.

September 23, 2010
4:00 pm

TSU Pavilion B & C

Book Signing and Refreshments Following Lecture*
Free and Open to the Public

Sponsored by the Departments of Philosophy, Liberal Studies, Biology, Geology, Psychology, Comparative Religion, the Philosophy Club, the Liberal Studies Student Association, and the College of Humanities and Social Sciences

For more information email Dr. JeeLoo Liu, Philosophy Department at jeeooliu@fullerton.edu

CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY
FULLERTON