Globalization
Health
Immigration
Social Inequalities
Sports & Culture
Food Studies

The Sociology program at Cal State Fullerton offers a comprehensive Masters of Arts program in Sociology. Whether you’re a recent graduate looking to expand your research skills and continue later in a PhD program, interested in teaching at a community college, or a working professional looking to enhance your analytical and applied research skills, the graduate program in sociology can be tailored to your needs.

The CSUF Sociology MA program is committed to public and critical sociology based on rigorous research methods, a solid grounding in social theory, and professional application. We provide opportunities for graduate students to hone their teaching skills and to participate in independent and faculty research projects. Students can focus their studies on a variety of areas including:

Race, Class, Gender
Applied Sociology
Crime and Deviance
Education
Family
Sexualities

Globalization
Health
Immigration
Social Inequalities
Sports & Culture
Food Studies

Comprised of nationally and internationally recognized scholars who hold doctorate degrees from prestigious universities across the US, our faculty is active in the field and intent on putting students first.

We have an outstanding record of placing graduate students and a reputation as one of the strongest graduate programs in the California State system. Graduates of our program have gone on to be community college professors, graduate students at the doctoral level, social workers, and professionals in the not-for-profit and government sectors.

To Apply

Our application process is online, at CALSTATE.EDU/APPLY. You will submit the following:

- three letters of recommendation
- a writing sample
- a statement of purpose
- transcripts

All applications should be complete by March 1 for consideration for the following fall semester. GRE scores are not required.

MA Degree Requirements

30 units are required for the M.A. degree, including:

581: Advanced Theories of Social Behavior
585: Practice of Sociology
502A: Research Process—research methods
502B: Research Process—social stats
501T: Topics in Societal Structure and Process

In addition, 12 units of elective courses and a terminal option are also required. Students choose one of three different final evaluation options: an applied research project, a thesis, or comprehensive exams.

Visit us today and see what your future could be!

For additional application information go to http://hss.fullerton.edu/sociology/academics/graduate.aspx
Or contact:
Dana Collins, PhD, Graduate Advisor
dcollins@fullerton.edu