

ANTHROPOLOGY STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS – 2021

Anthropology Students Association (ASA)

The ASA is the parent organization to which all Anthropology students (undergraduate majors, minors and graduate students) belong. ASA helps acquire and administer student club funds and decides how the monies raised should be spent to promote anthropology on campus and in the surrounding community. All Anthropology students are automatically members of the ASA. ASA-sponsored events include symposiums, round table discussions, workshops, and other related activities. For more information, please contact any of the Division of Anthropology faculty coordinators.

Association for Primate Evolutionary Studies (APES)

APES is a student group which hosts the annual Southern California Primate Research Forum. This forum, which has been inviting speakers for nearly 20 years, brings current researchers working in primate range countries to CSUF to share their experiences and work. The group also visits local area zoos that have primates to reinforce student knowledge of primates and share the experience of observing them. For more information, please contact the APES faculty advisor Raffaella Commitante at rcommitante@fullerton.edu

Anthropology Students Association (ASA)

The ASA is the parent organization to which all Anthropology students (undergraduate majors, minors and graduate students) belong. ASA helps acquire and administer student club funds and decides how the monies raised should be spent to promote anthropology on campus and in the nearby community. All Anthropology students are automatically members of the ASA. ASA-sponsored events include symposiums, round table discussions, workshops, and other related activities. For more information, please contact ASA's current faculty advisor Dr. Elizabeth Pillsworth at epillsworth@fullerton.edu

Association for Primate Evolutionary Studies (APES)

APES is a student group which hosts the annual Southern California Primate Research Forum. This forum, which has been inviting speakers for nearly 20 years, brings current researchers working in primate range countries to CSUF to share their experiences and work. The group also visits local area zoos that have primates to reinforce student knowledge of primates and share the experience of observing them. For more information, please contact the APES faculty advisor Raffaella Commitante at rcommitante@fullerton.edu

Lambda Alpha National Anthropology Honor Society, ETA Chapter

The Lambda Alpha National Anthropology Honor Society is a national organization dedicated to the promotion of academic and professional excellence. Lambda Alpha promotes the professional growth and development of its members through workshops, fieldtrips, conferences, and other related activities. Members are eligible to submit articles for publication in the national Lambda Alpha Journal and are eligible to apply for national scholarships.

Membership is open to undergraduates, graduate students, and alumni. Applicants must have an anthropology grade point average of 3.0 and a cumulative GPA at CSUF of 2.5. Grad students must have a cumulative GPA of 3.25. Members may wear the Lambda Alpha regalia at graduation and are members for life. Applications are available in the Anthropology office in McCarthy Hall 426 (or virtually for the time being). For more information, please contact Lambda Alpha's current faculty advisor Dr. Barbra Erickson at beerickson@fullerton.edu

ANTHROPOLOGY STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS – 2021

Roots and Shoots

Roots and Shoots at CSUF is the campus chapter of an international youth-led community action and learning organization originally established by Dr. Jane Goodall. Its mission is to empower young people to devise solutions and take action to solve local (and global) problems and make a positive impact on their communities and the world. At CSUF, Roots and Shoots sponsors a community supported agriculture (CSA) program with South Coast Farms (an organic farm in San Juan Capistrano). For more information, please contact Roots and Shoots' current faculty advisor Dr. Sara Johnson at sjohnson@fullerton.edu.

Titan Archaeology Club (TAC)

TAC's goals are to promote greater understanding and appreciation for archeology on the CSUF campus. TAC events provide students opportunities to become involved in archeological fieldwork and research. TAC-sponsored events include guest speaker series, workshops, and field trips to nearby archeological sites. For more information, please contact titanarchaeology@gmail.com

Society for Interdisciplinary Research in Evolution (SIRE)

SIRE seeks to promote greater understanding and appreciation of topics in evolutionary approaches to human behavior including human behavioral ecology, evolutionary psychology and primatology. For more information, please contact SIRE's current faculty advisor Dr. Elizabeth Pillsworth at epillsworth@fullerton.edu